Seminar series

Adventures in business archives

Founded in 1934, the Business Archives Council highlights the wide diversity of material contained in business archives. Where for example will you find a car, a horse, or a sample of material that was used on the Titanic?

In this fascinating seminar Dr Mike Anson will talk about his experiences and the work of the Business Archives Council.

Dr Mike Anson is Archive Manager at the Bank of England Archive and is currently the Chair of the Business Archives Council. He has spent many years in and around business archives.
